Key Highlights from the Global Countertops Market Report:

Granite is the Most Used Material for Countertops

- Thanks to the increasing number of consumers around the world preferring granite over other materials for their countertops, the countertops market has skyrocketed in recent years. The two main reasons for this preference are cost-effectiveness and aesthetic appeal.
- Granite products are heat-resistant, scratch-proof, and crack-free, which is why consumers also make use of it for remodeling their kitchens and bathrooms.

Asia-Pacific is the Fastest Growing Market

- In China, the countertop market is expected to experience a significant boost because of the rise in the standard of living of consumers. New and continuous projects focused on modernizing both residential and non-residential units contribute to this boom.
- The second-fastest-growing market for countertops in the region is India. Economic growth plays a huge part in the growth of the market.
