Stonebridge Companies Continues to Support Those Affected by the Marshall Fire
The company is teaming up with the Community Foundation Boulder County to raise funds

DENVER – On December 30, 2021, the Marshall Fire roared through Boulder County, Colorado and became the most destructive wildfire in the state’s history. The fire encompassed more than 6,000 acres and destroyed more than 1,000 homes in the area leaving residents in the community without adequate shelter and resources. Devastated by the loss that the community has experienced, Stonebridge Companies is continuing to raise money to benefit The Community Foundation, which will match the donations received up to $25,000.
