Key Highlights from the North America Diabetes Care Devices Market Report:

Demand for Monitoring Devices Driving the Market

- Monitoring devices are gaining popularity due to the availability of reimbursement options for glucose meters. Glucose meters are costly, and they should be replaced in six to eight months. Therefore, most people prefer to go for health insurance plans that cover 80% of the total healthcare costs.
- CGM devices are growing in demand in North America as they use advanced technology and can empower people with diabetes to make informed decisions about their health.

United States to Dominate the Market

- The United States is expected to register massive growth in the market due to the high prevalence of obesity in the country and the increasing awareness of diabetes care.
- New product launches in insulin pump devices are driving the US market. For example, Medtronic received FDA approval for its new infusion set, which features extended wearability and can last longer than existing infusion sets.

What are the Latest Developments in the North America Diabetes Care Devices Market?
