DAS Health Expands into Canadian Market with Recent Acquisition

DAS Health Ventures, LLC (DAS Health), a provider of healthcare IT and business solutions, proudly announces the acquisition of the North American Digital Health division from a leading established digital transformation provider based in Canada. This strategic acquisition moves DAS Health into the Canadian market and deepens presence in the senior care sector throughout North America, following the successful acquisition of vcpi earlier this year.

Known for its comprehensive IT services and dedication to empowering senior care businesses through technology, the acquired division aligns seamlessly with DAS Health's mission to deliver superior health IT solutions and support. By integrating expertise and resources from both teams, DAS Health will offer enhanced services to the client base, driving innovation and improving operational efficiencies across North America.

"This acquisition represents a significant milestone in our growth strategy," said Michelle Jaeger, President, and CEO of DAS Health. "This expansion not only provides a footprint in Canada but also enhances our capabilities within the senior care space. We are excited to bring our comprehensive suite of solutions to a broader audience, empowering healthcare providers with the tools they need to deliver exceptional care."

This acquisition underscores DAS Health's commitment to providing cutting-edge technology and business solutions, tailored to the unique needs of the healthcare and senior care industry. With this acquisition, DAS Health will offer a more robust portfolio of services to this new client base, including managed IT, cybersecurity, cloud hosting services, integrations, revenue cycle management and other related services, all designed to support the evolving needs of healthcare organizations.

DAS Health remains dedicated to its vision of transforming healthcare through innovative technology and unparalleled service. The acquisition is a testament to this commitment and a significant step forward in DAS Health's journey to extending its position as the premier health IT solutions provider in North America.
