

(Figure 4: Wall of the first trench at the Powerline showing. Large boulders are evident in the conglomerate. Dark orange and red staining is from weathered pyrite occurring in the matrix of the conglomerate. Otherwise, the rock is nearly fresh. Trenches are carefully being cleaned of weathered rock in preparation for bulk sampling.)